

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method for managing graphics display associated with an embedded system where multiple application programs reside and the graphics display is accessible by the multiple application programs. The system includes a graphics resource manager which prevents the application programs from accessing the graphics display at the same time.